

Magdalena Korzynietz

MA, BA

Teaching and Research Fellow/Facilitator

Magdalena Korzynietz is a new asset of Roffey Park Institute having joined in January 2021 as a Teaching and Research Fellow/ Facilitator. She brings vast experience in teaching and management combined with mediation and facilitation. Magdalena develops sustainable methods to achieve positive change in companies, focusing on open communication, trust, and building resilience. She combines her passion for education with intercultural skills and innovative interactive learning techniques.

Magdalena believes that people can achieve incredible things, once they trust themselves and others. She guides leaders and teams towards a cognitive sense of purpose and intent, by giving them useful tools of communication and collaboration. Magdalena's background in teaching enriches her facilitation kit with creative, playful, improvisation methods. She has also developed skills in somatic approach and mindfulness techniques.

Originally from Poland, Magdalena has lived and worked in England, France, Spain and Germany. She is fluent in four languages: English, Polish, Spanish and German. She holds degrees in Polish Philology with a teaching and editing specialism, as well as Mediation and Conflict Management with an intercultural specialism.
